Likely one of the Gaspee Raiders. He was captain of the ship, Fortune, which had been taken by the British and the rum on board confiscated. Witnesses claimed to have seen Rufus on board the Gaspee arguing with the captain over the whereabouts of his rum. The Gaspee was destroyed by the raiders and this conflict was the first in the fight for American Independence.

Rufus married Margaret Buckhart Buckhout, daughter of John Buckhout and Margaret Mary Way, on 10 Jul 1768 in Poughkeepsie, Dutchess, New York. (Margaret Buckhart Buckhout was born about 1745 in East Greenwich, Kent, Rhode Island, christened of Fishkill, Dutchess, NY, died in Apr 1831 in Houndsfield, Jefferson, New York and was buried in 1831 in Hounsfield, Jefferson, NY.)

Capt. Rufus Greene

Every witness to the Gaspee affair who mentioned names included the name "Greene".

The Greene family were owners of the Fortune, seized by Dudingston, and had a strong grievance against him. Among the goods seized (as smuggled goods) was some rum. During the period of the Gaspee raid the Greenes were in the process of bringing a law suit against Dudingston for damages for their lost rum. The initial part of this legal process was political and investigative. That is, the Greenes and others asked the Rhode Island governor to discover the authority of the person commanding the Gaspee. The Gaspee raid took place after the governor was unsuccessful is actually seeing any written authority of Dudingston to see a vessel in the colony's waters and then send the seized ship off to Boston. After the Gaspee raid, that lawsuit was successfully concluded with a jury verdict adjudging improper seizure by Dudingston and damages assessed against Dudingston. [See Bryant 1967 at pp 65-71, which details the lawsuits the Greene family filed against Dudingston.]

The Gaspee sailors testified that during the capture of the Gaspee one man verbally harassed Dudingston about payment for rum. Although in past times many merchants had rum seized by Dudingston, only the seizure of the rum on the Greene's ship Fortune was both recent and also the subject of a pending lawsuit against Dudingston for payment for the seizure. Thus the mention by participants of a "Greene" being in the raiding party seems consistent with the historical background. The question is: which Greene?

- Nathaniel, the owner of the rum;
- Jacob, the registered owner of the Fortune, or
- Rufus, Jr., the Fortune's master.

Our thinking as to which Greene was in the Gaspee raiding party involves three main points:

> Nathaniel said he was not there that night. [Nathaniel's biographer (George Washington Greene) reports this and gives as his source a conversation with Ephraim Bowen.]
> It was Rufus Jr. who was the captain on board the Fortune when it was sized by the Gaspee.
> Jacob, much older and senior in the family business, normally would have been wasting his time being on a voyage where Rufus Jr. was the ship captain. One family member, a ship captain, was sufficient to take care of the family business involved in a voyage. Given the nature of the businesses of the family and the need to manage multiple ship voyages, it is highly unlikely that two Greenes would have been aboard the Fortune on the same voyage.

Gaspee crewperson Peter May, who was on the Gaspee both at the time of the Fortune confiscation and also the attack on the Gaspee, stated that he saw the same "Greene" on the Fortune and also among the attackers [Staples pp.67 and 76].

Thus, we settle on Rufus Greene, Jr., as being the Gaspee Raider.

If Rufus Greene, Jr., was the Greene raider, the most likely situations are that he either was in port with a ship in Providence or else he had traveled 25 miles from his farmlands in East Greenwich to be there specifically for some business on 9 June 1772. The later option fits with the conspiracy theory of John Concannon of the Gaspee Virtual Archives; Concannon surmises that the Gaspee running aground was no accident, but rather a deliberate trap engineered by John Brown.

Rufus's January 1773 description of the confiscation of the Fortune, for which Dudingston was successfully sued after the investigating commission was completed, was as follows

> I, Rufus Greene, Jr., of East Greenwich, in the colony of Rhode Island, mariner, depose and say; that some time in February last, I was on board of and commanded the sloop Fortune, lying at anchor in the Narragansett Bay, off North Kingstown, having a quantity of rum on board, belonging to Nathaniel Greene & Co., when one Dundass, an officer of the schooner Gaspee, under the command of Lieutenant Dudingston, came on board and asked this deponent if he would take any freight on board; to which this deponent answered no; he then ordered this deponent to unlay the hatches; and this deponent telling the said Dundass that said hatches were unlaid, he then ordered him into the cabin; and being demanded by what authority he thus did, replied, "If you do not go into the cabin I'll let you know," drawing his sword; he then caught this deponent by the collar, and pushed him into the cabin; this deponent then came out of said cabin, and went forward to prevent the anchor's being weighed; he then clenched upon this deponent again, thrust him into the cabin, jammed the companion leaf upon his head, knocked him down upon a chest in said cabin, and confined him there for a considerable time; after this deponent entreating the said Dundass to let him free, he did so, and made a seizure of the said vessel and cargo, (as he said,) and put the letter "R" upon her hatches; then towed said sloop to said schooner (it being calm) with three boats. This deponent being commanded aboard the schooner aforesaid, obeyed; went before said Lieutenant

Major General Nathaniel Greene (1742-1786).

The Greenes were one-quarter owners of the Hope Furnace, an enterprise in which the Browns, the Greenes, and the Hopkins families were the owners. In addition the Greenes were the owners of a forge near the Hope Furnace, which forge was famous for supplying anchors for ships of New England.

The Senior Green Brothers were:

1. Brother Rufus Greene was for many years a successful sea captain and merchant. However, he became the manager of the Hope Furnace, a full time occupation normally not allowing for absences of several days. As Rufus Sr. no longer was available for chip master duties, his son Rufus Jr., became a ship captain in the Greene family enterprises. It was Rufus Jr., who was the captain of the ship Fortune that was seized by Lt. Dudingston's ship Gaspee, as noted above.
2. Brother Jacob was the owner of record of the ship Fortune..
3. Brother Nathaniel Greene was the owner of record of the cargo of 12 hogshead of rum that were seized. This Nathaniel Greene was born in 1707, and was the father of the Nathaniel Green who was born in 1742. The son, b. 1742, although publicly accused, vehemently denied having been a participant in the Gaspee affair when asked sometime after the Revolution had started. Indeed, a letter from E. Brown To Artemas Ward survives which places this younger Nathanial Green with Ward in Boston on the night the Gaspee was attacked, only traveling to Providence the following day. See Lee Patrick Anderson, Forgotten Patriot: the life and times of Major-General Nathaniel Green. This younger Nathanial is the one who went on to become General George Washington's second-in-command during the later part of the Revolution.
4. Brother Thomas was one of the signers of the complaint against Dudingston that resulted in Governor Wanton requesting Dudingston to appear before him with his authority for what he was doing in the Rhode Island waters, even before the seizure of the Fortune and its rum.

Genealogical Notes.

The wrangle with the Massachusetts authorities. Arrest of Surgeon John in Boston. The Massachusetts version of the affair. Settlement of Shawomet, afterwards Warwick. Death of Mrs. Joan Greene among the Indians. Wholesale arrests. Surgeon John in London. His last days.

Rhode Island might better have been named the State of Greene. It is said to not be safe to speak evil of any man in the State, for if not a Greene, he is liable to be of kin to them. Rhode Island is the one state where the Smiths, Browns and Johnsons are outnumbered. There are more Greenes in the State than of any other name whatever, and they have enjoyed more state and civic honors than any other family within her borders.

The Mississippi, as its headwaters flow from Lake Itaska, is but a small stream. It gathers momentum as it descends, and becomes a mighty torrent ere it empties into the ocean. So the stream of descent for this numerous family, great as it is, has its rise in the triple father fountains, the three John Greenes of Rhode Island.

The early records are by no means complete. Knowing this, many take it for granted that the first hundred years of R. I. history must be confused and tangled as to the Greenes, as each of the stem-fathers had the same name. Others suppose that other Greenes came to R. I. in an early day, and that their descendants are mixed up with the others. I have made a careful and special study on this very subject. I state emphatically, (1) that up to the year 1700 there is no record, tradition or trace of any stem-father by the name of Greene, other than these three Johns. (2) There is no confusion whatever, up to the same year, A. D. 1700. After that there is, in some cases. But to that time, every son or daughter of that house may be readily and correctly placed among the descendants of the particular John to whom he or she belonged.

John of Newport's children have been the least numerous. They kept to their own part of the state and did not intermarry with the others. Surgeon John moved to Warwick before any of his children married, and for a long time his descendants lived almost exclusively at Warwick and East Greenwich. John of Quidnessett's line lived at Kingstown, now Wickford, Westerly, Charleston, Coventry, and West Greenwich quite as commonly. I repeat that no one need fear that any of the early generations are assigned to the line of the wrong John. It has been easier to get the first century's links of descent accurate than those of a later date, when the families began to scatter.

John of Newport passes at once from this narrative, as no incidents are recorded of his history. The other Johns were both leaders, both prominent men, and there is a great deal in the records about them. They showed a resemblance in their traits. No doubt they were good and able men, and left a record their descendants are justly proud of. But they were not saints. They were both positive, aggressive, stand-on-the-defensive men. Their fighting armor was ever on. In fact, they were two typical Englishmen, that could neither be scared nor driven, and were on general principles not averse to a scrap now and then.

Both men were prominent. Of the two, Surgeon John of Warwick's fame is the greater. He was a generation older than the younger John, and the more naturally selected as a representative of the Providence Plantations* to cross the ocean and lay their side of the controversy with Massachusetts before the English authorities. In England he became the best known man of the Colony, with the exception of Roger Williams. Naturally official favor was shown to both him and his sons.

Of the Surgeon's three sons who lived to be middle-aged, all three were at various times Assistant President of the Colony. The oldest son, whose name was also John, held office from the Crown for forty-nine years, having been Recorder, Attorney General, President's Assistant, one of the Council of Sir Edmund Andros, Major of the Main, which is equivalent to our Major General, and for ten years, 1690–1700, was Deputy Governor, the highest office in the Colony, Sir Edmund Andros being Governor over all the New England Colonies as a whole.

* The colony was first called Providence Plantations. In 1638, Rev. John Clarke, whose trial for heresy is given in the previous chapter, and Mrs. Anne Hutchinson, a banished "heretic," purchased Aquidneck Island of the Narragansett Indians. The Hutchinsons started the town of Pocasset or Portsmouth. Clarke started the town of Newport in 1639. Rev. Clarke thought Aquidneck a good name for the entire region and found many who followed his example in calling it that. In 1644, the year Surgeon John went back to England, the Assembly met and debated which of the several names used should be adopted by the colony. They settled upon the name Island of Rhode, or Rhode Island. The name spread so slowly that Surgeon John, fifteen years later, used in his will the term Providence Plantations. In 1663, the name of Rhode Island was finally and officially confirmed.

This brave record has been well kept up. Of this family have been General Nathaniel Greene, greatest, save Washington, of all the Revolutionary War heroes; General George Sears Greene and General Francis Vinton Greene. It has supplied Rhode Island with representatives, senators, supreme judges and governors. As a result, when a Greene first begins to study his pedigree, his first question is,—"Am I of the Warwick Greenes?"

To take up Surgeon John of Warwick, R. I.'s history first of all.

Roger Williams purchased the land upon which the city of Providence stands, from the Indians. Then as grantor he deeded it to twelve trustees for the use of the colony. Stukeley Westcott is the first trustee mentioned, John Greene the fifth, and Ezekiel Holyman the last. Two years later, the time being ripe for division, the land was divided into fifty-four lots or shares, one lot being allowed to each single man or head of a family who had been an "associate," as the records phrase it, with Roger Williams at the time of the Providence settlement. Where a husband had died the widow was given his share, so that none were either overlooked or given a double portion.

John Greene Senior and John Greene Junior each received an allotment. The first of these was of course Surgeon John. It has been held that John Greene the Younger was the Surgeon's oldest son. But inasmuch as he was a lad of less than sixteen in June, 1636, when Providence was settled, this seems improbable. It seems more reasonable that the younger John was John Greene of Quidnessett, a man of thirty at the time of the exodus.

When Providence bid fair to become a prosperous settlement, Massachusetts began to make trouble by claiming it was within the limits granted to her, and belonged to her jurisdiction. She did not hesitate to step in and nullify Providence Plantation's laws, and she threatened to prosecute those of heterodox religious views. This was the beginning of a long struggle that lasted for years, and in which neither Rhode Island nor Massachusetts show up to advantage. They quarrelled, took unfair advantages of each other, appealed to the mother country, and were as stiff-headed and unreasonable a set of mortals as could well be imagined.

Roger Williams in 1641 sailed to England to get a charter for R. I. that would stop these clamors. The spite-work and quarrelling waxed worse after his departure. There were Samuel Gorton, Richard Carder, Randall Holden and Robert Potter, particularly violent in speech, and ring-leaders on the R. I. side. Surgeon John was a warm friend of these men, and in the thickest of the fray. The Surgeon wrote a bold pamphlet on what was called the Verin Controversy, a question of heresy and the State's right to put down such beliefs. He flatly charged the Legislature of the Bay (Mass.) with "Usurping the power of Christ over the Churches and men's consciences."

There was nothing of the craven about the doughty Surgeon. The year after his settlement at Providence, he paid a visit to Boston. Here he expressed himself freely as to the tyranny of town officers trying to control men's consciences. Palfrey tells us that the Boston authorities, Sept. 19, 1637, fined him twenty pounds (nearly $100.00) for "seditious discourse," and sent him away with an injunction to keep away for the future.

Captain Edward Johnson in his "Wonder-working Providence," tells us the Massachusetts' side. He says Surgeon John Greene "spoke contemptuously of Magistrates," and because of it was heavily fined and "forbidden this jurisdiction on pain of further fine and imprisonment." Meanwhile three of his especial friends, Potter, Carder and Holden were "disenfranchised of their privileges and prerogatives, and their names cancelled out of the record." Captain Johnson thought these men deserved this punishment, for he says they were "full gorged with dreadful and damnable errors." Another author tells us that these men disturbed the authorities by "their insolent and riotous carriages," and that they wrote "insulting and abusive letters" in defending their course to their superiors.

Gorton, the most turbulent of the lot, determined to start a new settlement. In 1642, he purchased Occupessuatuxet, or Pawtuxet, of Miantonomo, the head sachem of the Narragansett Indians. This was called Shawomet or Shawmut until 35 years later, when it was changed to Warwick. Following Roger Williams' example, this land was deeded to a dozen trustees or proprietors, the coterie of the five close friends already mentioned, and John Wicks, Francis Weston, Richard Waterman, John Warner, Samson Shatton, William Wardwell* and Nicholas Power. How close and strong was the friendship between these men who faced peril and hardship together, is shown by the fact that Surgeon John's near descendants married into the Wicks, Holden, Gorton, Potter and Carder families.

Massachusetts took this new settlement to be a challenge to her from her most seditious and rebellious subjects. The long threatened storm burst upon them in a fury. The Massachusetts authorites sent commissioners and forty soldiers, who broke up the settlement by force, and took nearly all the settlers of Shawomet prisoners. This was in 1643. Joan, wife of Surgeon John, was drawing near death. In her weak state, she was dreadfully alarmed, and her husband carried her off for refuge to the friendly Indians at Conanicut, R. I. Tradition says that here, with dusky faces watching about her death-bed, she passed away. Her husband remained with her until the mortal breath had left her body, and so escaped the trials of his comrades.

* Wuddall in records. This is the William Wardwell whose daughter Frances married John Anthony, and was thus the fore-mother of Susan B. Anthony. This was a Quaker family, and afterwards lived at Portsmouth where there was a large Friends' settlement.

Gorton and ten others were taken to Massachusetts. They were tried on the charge of being "damnable heretics." They were convicted and sentenced to hard labor at Charlestown, Mass. The next year, 1644, this sentence was commuted to banishment. Surgeon John Greene was selected by the indignant Rhode Islanders to present their grievances to England. He got safely away in 1644, and made so favorable an impression in the mother country that he secured valuable concessions and privileges for R. I. While in England he married a former R. I. friend, the widow Alice Daniels, who had returned to her old home. She lived but a short time, and after his return to R. I. he married a third wife, Phillipa (or Phellix), who survived him. He died in 1659 at Warwick (Shawomet).* He was buried at Conanicut (or Connimicut) by the side of his faithful Joan. As has already been said, his children for many years held high official positions under the government. Nevertheless, after his death, John of Quidnessett was the leading Greene of Rhode Island, and stands out in a plain, clear light of his own.

I prepared a condensed genealogy of the Warwick Greenes, but find that it takes more space than can well be given it. I will only say, that but four of his children left issue, Mary Greene-Sweet, Deputy-Governor John, James and Thomas. Gen. Nathaniel Greene, the greatest of the Warwick Greenes, was the great-great-grandson of Surgeon John, [John^1, James^2, Jabez^3, Nathaniel^4 and General Nathaniel Greene^5.]

From thenceforth the line of John Greene of Quidnessett alone is traced.

* The spelling in Surgeon John Greene's will is calculated to excite a smile: "ffurthermore," "sonne," "akers," "lott," etc., are some of these queer spellings. The will closes thus:

(6) Helen Vernon, born Feb. 10, 1864, married, June 17, 1885, James Finley Canfield, and they had two children: John Gladding, born July 21, 1886; and Margaret Caldwell, born Nov. 17, 1891, who died Jan. 20, 1893. For her second husband she married Albert L. Calder 2d, a cotton broker and manufacturer of Providence, Aug. 4, 1903.

(7) Wilhelmina Everett, born Jan. 17, 1868, married, Jan. 31, 1893, William R. Babcock, a wholesale merchant of Providence, who was born May 7, 1854, son of John R. Babcock and Eliza (Alger). They have two children: Mary Floyd, born March 29, 1894; and Wilhelmina Russell, born Aug. 23, 1895.

John A. C. Gladding received his education in his native town, and in early life accompanied his father, who owned and commanded a vessel in the coasting business between Providence, New York and Albany. He participated in the Dorr war, as a volunteer from Bristol, under the command of Col. William R. T[redacted]r joined a company known as the "Sea Fencibles," of Providence, which was largely composed of sailors. At this time he was employed in the Fairbanks Boiler Shop at India Point, Providence. About the year 1845 he commanded a vessel and did a coasting business, like his father before him, between Providence, New York and Albany, as well as other ports along the coast. Captain Gladding continued in the coasting business until 1853, when he moved to Albany, N. Y., where he was employed as head brakeman on the Hudson River railroad. In 1856 he moved back to his native town, where he carried on the teaming business until the breaking out of the Rebellion, in 1861, at which time he held a commission as major in the Bristol Train of Artillery. He was also at that time appointed by the State a recruiting officer for the purpose of enlisting volunteers for the war, the result of which was the enlistment of eighteen recruits, who, together with himself, formed a part of Company K, 4th Regiment, Rhode Island Volunteers, in which Captain Gladding was appointed a sergeant. He was with General Burnside in his expedition to North Carolina and took active part in the battles of Roanoke Island and Fort Macon, and was detailed by General Burnside to accompany, by vessel, to the hospitals in the North a company of sick and wounded soldiers. Although he enlisted for three years, after serving fourteen months he was honorably discharged from the service, Nov. 3, 1862, by surgeon's certificate, on account of disabilities. As soon as his health would permit after leaving the service he engaged in a boating and fishing business until 1865, and for several years he kept and maintained a lightship on Hog Island shoals, in Narragansett Bay, for the Old Colony Steamboat Company, until a lightship was placed there by the United States Government.

In 1870 the Captain opened a restaurant and ice cream saloon in Bristol and did most of the catering for the town, his chowders and clambakes being famous. He was called upon quite frequently by Gen. Burnside, who entertained Gen. U. S. Grant and many other distinguished guests with his clambakes, chowders, etc. About 1880 he engaged in the planting and raising of oysters, his oyster beds being situated in the Kickamuit and Providence rivers, in Rhode Island; from these beds many of the large houses in New York and Boston are supplied with the celebrated "King Philip" oysters. In his later years he continued with his son, Theodore O. Gladding, to carry on the wholesale oyster business.

Captain Gladding held several minor offices in his native town. He was a member and officer of Babbitt Post, No. 15, G. A. R. He was a man of many capabilities, in times of emergency quick to grasp the situation, possessed of very good judgment, very generous, and ever ready and willing to go out of his way at any time of the day or night to do a kind act. He was a most excellent gardener and dear lover of flowers, and at the age of nearly eighty, for a man of his years, enjoyed a remarkable degree of good health until shortly before his death. He marched in line with his regiment in Providence on battle-flag day, Oct. 17, 1903, over the whole route, when the old battle-flags were transferred from the old to the new Statehouse. His loyalty to and interest in G. A. R. affairs many times caused him to go beyond his strength, as was the case at the Grand Encampment of the G. A. R. held in Boston in 1904 when, against the advice of his comrades and friends, he took his place in the line, in which he made his last march. Overcome and exhausted by the fatigue and heat, he was obliged to retire from the ranks and was taken to a drug store near by, where he received the necessary treatment, and for a while he seemed to rally from the exhaustion, but the improvement was temporary only and he gradually failed in health until the 27th of June, 1905, when he passed away, having almost reached the age of four-score years.

(I) John Greene, an English surgeon, son of Richard and Mary (Hooker) Greene, grandson of Richard Greene and great-grandson of Robert Greene, was born on his father's estate at Bowridge Hill, in the parish of Gillingham, County of Dorset, England, about 1590. His forefathers had been residents of Bowridge Hill for nearly an hundred years before him, and Robert Greene, it seems probable, was descended from a younger branch of the powerful and wealthy family of Greenes of Northamptonshire. This surgeon, John Greene, had early removed to Sarum (Salisbury), the county town of Wiltshire, where, at St. Thomas's Church, Nov. 4, 1619, he was married to Joanne Tattershall, who was the mother of all his children, seven in number, and all of whom were baptized at St. Thomas's Church. Mr. Greene here lived and followed his profession for sixteen years, when, in 1635, with his wife and six children, he sailed in the ship "James" for New England, and arrived in Boston June 3d of that year. He first settled at Salem, where he was associated with Roger Williams and where he purchased or built a house, but soon after Mr. Williams' flight from Salem (1636) he sold it, joined Williams at Providence and secured his home lot, No. 15, on the Main street. Surgeon Greene was one of the eleven men baptized by Roger Williams and one of the twelve original members of the first Baptist Church on the continent, organized at Providence, R. I. He was the first professional medical man in Providence Plantations. Mrs. Joanne Greene died soon after the family's removal to Rhode Island, and Surgeon Greene married (second) Alice Daniels, a widow, and in 1642-43 they removed to Warwick, R. I. After the death of his wife Alice, he married (third) in London, England, about 1644, Phillipa, who returned with him to Warwick, R. I., in 1646. The third Mrs. Greene died March 11, 1687, in Warwick.

Surgeon Greene made the first purchase by the English of land in Warwick, R. I., to whom was deeded the tract of land (700 acres) Oct. 11, 1642, called Occupasuetuxet by the chief sachem of the Narragansetts and the local sachem of Pawtuxet, and upon it was an actual resident in September, 1644, and his family held it for 140 and more years, when it was sold, Oct. 6, 1782, by his great-great-grandchildren. Surgeon Greene was a prominent man in the public affairs of the town and the Colony and enjoyed the confidence and respect of his associates through a long and active political life, holding office almost continuously until the summer before his death, when he declined to accept the office of commissioner. He died and was buried at Conimicut, Warwick, the first week in January, 1659. His issue were: John, Peter, Richard, James, Thomas, Joan and Mary.

(II) James Greene, "of Potowomut," baptized June 21, 1626, came to New England with his parents. He married (first) about 1658 Deliverance, born in 1637, daughter of Robert Potter and wife Isabel. (Robert Potter was the ancestor of Bishop Potter of New York and Pennsylvania). She died in 1664, and he married (second) Aug. 3, 1665, Elizabeth, daughter of John and Susannah Anthony, of Portsmouth, R. I. She died in 1698. James Greene was made a freeman of Warwick and Providence Plantations in 1647 and resided at Old Warwick. He was a member of the General Assembly of the Colony, being commissioner under the first charter and deputy and assistant under the second (1663) for ten years between 1660 and 1675. He was considered a man of much practical sagacity. On the outbreak of the Indian war, 1675-76, the inhabitants of Warwick left the town and Mr. Greene fled to Portsmouth, and in 1684, having made purchases of Warwick land, he removed to Potowomut, where was an ancient mill, and built his home on the hill near the west bank of the river, overlooking the beautiful lake which furnished the waterpower for the forge which his grandsons (sons of Jabez) established for making anchors and other forms of iron work. This became a notable industry in Colonial times and in the early days of the republic. The interests of the forge "were enhanced by the revival after peace existed between England and her emancipated Colonies, and this became the pioneer of the more extensive works on the Pawtuxet river, near the Western border of Warwick, known as 'the Forge.'" The place at Potowomut, where James Greene resided until his death, was the birthplace of his great-grandson, the highly distinguished Nathanael Greene of the Revolutionary army, and the residence of his descendants for more than two hundred years. He died "at his mansion in Potowomut," April 27, 1698, in the seventy-second year of his age. The issue of the first marriage of James Greene were: James, Mary, Elisha and Sarah; and of the second marriage: Peter, Elizabeth, John, Jabez, David, John and Susanna.

I., married (first) March 17, 1697-98, Mary, daughter of Benjamin and Susanna (Gorton) Barton, and granddaughter of the Warwick pioneer, Samuel Gorton. She died March 6, 1712-13, and he married (second) May 23, 1716, Grace, daughter of Valentine Whitman, of Providence. Mr. Greene inherited and resided at the Potowomut homestead. He was admitted a freeman of Warwick May 5, 1696. He was a Quaker and a meeting of the Society of Friends is of record as held at his house Dec. 3, 1699. He inherited also the forge at Potowomut, where his six sons and his grandchildren carried on the successful industry of manufacturing anchors and other iron work as late as 1820. Jabez Greene was grandfather of the distinguished Major-Gen. Nathanael Greene. The issue of the first marriage were: James, Benjamin, Jabez, Nathaniel, John and Rufus; and of the second: Mary.

Mr. Greene was made a freeman in February, 1735. He was interested with his father in iron manufacturing and was engaged also in mercantile business. He resided in East Greenwich. THE GREENE FAMILY

A DESCENDANT of the Greenes of Greene's Norton, County Northampton, John Greene, came over from Salisbury, County Wilts, to Boston, in 1635. His ancestry is traced back to Robert Greene of Gillingham, 1545.

Sir Bernard Burke states that this John Greene was a companion of Roger Williams and a party to the Providence purchase from the Indians.

A family tombstone in the King's Chapel Burial Ground, Boston, shows the same devices, as does, also, the book-plate of Gardiner Greene, (born, 1753) who married a sister of Lord Lyndhurst. The crest "A" is that found on the tombstone. The family uses, more generally, crest "B".

Crest "A"—A dove, holding a sprig of olive.

Crest "B"—A buck's head erased, or.

Motto—"Nec Timeo, Nec Sperno". Also, "Virtus semper viridis". (See American Heraldica, p. 58, edited by E. deV. Vermont.—Brentanos Bros., 1886. Also, Carpe Diem.

In Halstead's "Genealogy of the House of Greene" (London, 1685) it is stated that "The Arms of the House of Greene were azure, three bucks trippant, or, and in the illustration reproduced, a buck's head is shown as the crest, surmounting a Knight's helmet. The seal of Sir Henry Grene, the King's Chief Justice, shows the device and colors as described, but without the crest.

The tombs of Sir Thomas and Lady Greene, 1343-1391, and a second Sir Thomas Greene who died 1417, and his wife, Mary, 1462, in St. Bartholomew's Church, at Greene's Norton, bear the Greene Arms.

A letter written by Richard Greene of Gillingham, England, dated 23rd March, 1651 which was sealed with his armorial device, has the seal illustrated.

A silver seal used by John Greene, (1620-1708), Deputy Governor of Rhode Island from 1664 to 1680 which he used upon his many official documents and letters, the imprint is illustrated.

A beautiful silver tankard made about 1750, owned by Mrs. Katherine Celia Greene Welling of New York, once owned by Thomas Greene, and given to his niece, Martha Greene, has the Greene coat-of-arms engraved on the side.

Benjamin Greene of Boston, 1712-1776, used a book-plate bearing the Greene coat-of-arms and the date, 1757, which was engraved by Nathaniel Hurd of Boston.

General Nathanael Greene, 1742-1786, used the same arms but, he used vert, (green) instead of azure (blue) as the color of the escutcheon (shield).

David Greene of Boston, 1749-1812, used a book-plate which was engraved by Paul Revere and shows the same devices.

Gardner Greene of Boston, 1750-1832, used a seal showing the Greene Arms.

Rev. John Singleton Copley Greene, of Boston, 1810-1872, made use of a book-plate bearing the Greene Arms.

General George Sears Greene, 1801-1899, also used a book-plate bearing the Greene Arms.

FIRST GENERATION.

IN AMERICA

1. JOHN GREENE, Surgeon, Richard, Richard, Robert in England, the progenitor of the Warwick Greenes, was the son of Richard and Mary (Hooker) Greene, and was born on his father's estate at Bowridge Hill in the Parish of Gillingham, County Dorset, England, about 1590. His father Richard, and grandfather Richard and great grandfather, Robert had, for nearly 100 years before him, resided at Bowridge Hill and, were undoubtedly, a branch of the Northamptonshire family of Greene through a younger son.

The mother of John Greene, Surgeon, Mary Hooker, was the daughter of John Hooker (alias Vowell) who was born at Exeter, England, about 1524, his father, Robert Hooker, having been Mayor of that city in 1520, and a man of education and prominence. John Hooker was uncle to the celebrated divine, Richard Hooker, Rector of Bascombe, County Wilts, 1591, and Prebendary of Sarum.

John Greene removed early to Sarum, (Salisbury) the county town of Wiltshire, and was married in St. Thomas' Church, November 4, 1619, to Joanne Tattershall (or, as it is written on the church register, "Tatarsole"). Nothing is definitely known of her English connections. The name is frequently found in early records among post mortem examinations, parliamentary writs and charters, and is variously written Tatersall, Tateshall, Tatashall, and Tatershall. The first of the family of whom we have mention, came in with William the Conqueror and obtained the lordship of Tatershall in Lincolnshire, where he seated himself and from which, he took his surname. His descendants were seated in Berkshire and were held in high repute.

The marriage of John Greene, Surgeon, and the baptisms of all his seven children, are recorded in the Parish Register of St. Thomas' Church at Salisbury, England, are still extant. He is therein, styled "Mr." and "Gent", a mark of some distinction at that date. He resided at Salisbury with his family, following his profession for about sixteen years.

On April 6, 1635, he was registered for embarkation at Hampton, England with his wife and six children, (one having probably died before this date) in the ship "James" of 200 tons, William Cooper, Master, for New England. After a voyage of fifty-eight days, he arrived at Boston, Mass., June 3, 1635.

He first settled at Salem where he was associated with Roger Williams, purchasing or building a house there, but soon after Roger Williams' flight from Salem, (1636) he sold it and, joining Williams in Providence, secured his home lot No. 15 on the main street.

He was one of eleven men baptized by Roger Williams and one of the twelve original members of the first Baptist Church on this continent, organized in Providence, R. I.

He was the first professional medical man in Providence Plantations. He is alluded to in Goodwin's "Pilgrim Republic", (p. 407) as "one of the two local surgeons" at Providence in 1638, though we are told, "the people of Providence relied solely upon him for surgical aid, long after his removal to Warwick in 1643.

His first wife, Joanne Tatershall, the mother of all his children, died soon after his removal to Rhode Island and, it is supposed, was buried at Conimicut, Old Warwick.

He married, (2) "Ailsce (Alice) Daniels, a widow" (recorded as proprietor of a home lot in Providence (1637). They removed to Warwick in 1642-3.

At the time of the persecution of the Shawomet pioneers, (Oct. 1643) when "forty mounted and armed men" sent from Boston to arrest them, fired over their houses, the women and children fled to the woods. Fright and exposure caused the death of the second wife of John Greene. Samuel Gorton wrote of this attack of the Massachusetts troops: "Afflicting our wifes and children, forcing them to betake themselves, some into the woods among the Indians, suffering such hardships as occasioned the death of divers of them, as the wife of John Greene, as, also, the wife of Robert Potter".

John Greene was married (3) in London, England, about 1644, to Phillippa, (always written Phillip) who returned with him to Warwick, R. I., (1646). Her family name is not known. She died in Warwick March 11, 1687, aged about 87 years, having survived her husband for nearly 30 years.

John Greene, Suregon, was a prominent man in public affairs of the town and colony, and enjoyed the confidence and respect of his associates through a long and active political life, holding office almost continuously until the summer before his death, when he refused to accept the office of Commissioner, although being repeatedly urged to do so.

A few months later, the General Court of Massachusetts, at the request of Edward Lawson, Secretary of the Colony, (whose wife was Rachel Perin, daughter of John Greene's sister Rachel), granted him permission to visit Boston in the coming Spring but he did not live to accomplish this visit. He died in the first week in January, 1659, and is buried, it is supposed, beside his first wife, at Conimicut, Warwick.

"John Greene received by will from his brother Richard, Clerk of the Close, of Salisbury Cathedral, April 28, 1614, half of his Latin books, the other half being given to his brother Robert, who, by will, gave them also, to his brother John Greene in New England, if he come for them."

The possession of these Latin books by the three brothers, indicates that they were of an educated family.

In the baptisimal and marriage records at Salisbury, John Greene was recorded as "Mr." or, "Gent." denoting his social position.

5. JAMES GREENE "of Potowomut" (John & Richard - Richard - Robert in England) was baptized at St. Thomas' Church, Salisbury, England, June 21, 1626, and came with his parents to New England in 1635. He was made Freeman of Warwick and Providence Plantations in 1647.

He resided at Old Warwick on the southerly side of the main street, where the grave yard is now located, in which, he and some of his family are buried. He was on the "Roule of y Freemen of y Colonie of everie Towne" in 1655, and was Town Clerk May 16, 1661. "He was an excellent penman of y old English text." He was a member of the General Assembly of the Colony, being commissioner under the first charter, and Deputy and Assistant under the second, (1663) for ten years, between 1660 and 1675. He was considered "a man of much practical sagacity."

He does not appear to have been in public life after the Indian War (1675-6) when his house, with all others in Warwick, except the "Stone Castle" was burned to the ground.

When the message from the General Assembly advising the people of Warwick of danger was received, he fled to Portsmouth, R. I., where John Anthony, the father of his second wife resided. He remained for some years at "Hunting Swamp" but in 1684, having made purchases of Warwick land, he removed to Potowomut where was an ancient mill, and built his house on the hill near the west bank of the river, overlooking the beautiful lake which furnished the waterpower for the forge which his grandsons, (sons of Jabez) established for making anchors and other forms of ironwork.

This became a notable industry in Colonial times and in the early days of the Republic.

The interests of the Forge were enhanced by the revival of business after peace existed between England and her emancipated Colonies, and this became the pioneer of the more extensive works on Pawtuxet river near the western border of Warwick, known as "The Forge".

The place at Potowomut where James Greene resided until his death, was the birthplace of his great grandson, the highly distinguished Major General Nathanael Greene of the Revolutionary Army, and the residence of his descendants for more than 200 years.

He died "at his Mansion in Potowomut" April 27, 1698 in the 72nd year of his age, and was buried in the "Old Warwick" burial ground, under an altar-tomb with the inscription still in a good state of preservation, on his original house lot of six acres granted by the proprietors of Warwick, 1647, when he had attained his majority.

This lot was located on the main street, the second lot northeasterly from the road leading to Warwick Neck. The burial-ground and lot descended to his eldest son James whose descendants have been buried there to the present generation.

The estate in Old Warwick has, within a few years been sold out of the Greene family, but they still retain ownership of this ancient and historic burying-ground, located near the site of the "Stone Castle".

In recent years, much has been done to preserve the history of the family records, memorial stones having been erected by Rufus W. Greene and Benjamin Greene Arnold, containing records of the Greene ancestors, dating back to John Greene of Salisbury, England. And thus they will be passed on to coming generations, who will greatly appreciate the forethought which has preserved them, and the resting place of their ancestors.

He married (1) about 1658, Deliverance, daughter of Robert Potter (one of the early proprietors of Warwick, whose homestead adjoined his, and who was the ancestor of the Bishops Potter of New York and Pennsylvania) and his wife, Isabel, who died from exposure when the Massachusetts troops invaded Shawomet in 1643.

24. PETER GREENE "of Coweset" (James - John & Richard - Richard - Robert in England) was born August 25, 1666. He lived on his farm at Warwick. He was admitted freeman, April 30, 1687. He married, February 12, 1695, Elizabeth, daughter of Rev. Ebenezer and Mary (Thurston) Slocum of Conanicut (Jamestown) born January 1, 1677, died, June 5, 1728. She was sister of his brother David's wife (Mary)—(see No. 28).

He was drowned at Pawtucket Falls in 1708 and his widow was appointed administratrix of his estate by the Court of Probate of Warwick, November 16, 1708.

Peter Greene and Elizabeth, his wife, gave by deed, March 15, 1702-3, "to Father-in-law Ebenezer Slocum of Jamestown 90 acres of land in Coweset, part of said Peter Greene's Coweset Farm No. 13, on which, his dwelling house stands; bounded East by a highway South by a highway West by ——— of John Greene, North by a swamp; also half of my undivided land above what my father Greene gave me by will."

CHILDREN:

125. MARY, born April 6, 1697, married Samuel Carr.
126. ELIZABETH, born June 4, 1699.
127. EBENEZER, born February 8, 1701, married Miriam Remington.
128. THOMAS, born February 18, 1704, married Sarah Berry.

The Slocum family came from Somerse[illegible]re, England. The American ancestor of the Rhode Island family was Giles Slocum of Portsmouth, who, with his wife, was early identified with the Society of Friends. In his will, 1681, he left a bequest to his "Loving Friends the people of God called Quakers."

"Joan the wife of old Giles she Dyed at Portsmouth the 31 of 6 mo 1679."

Giles Slocum died in 1682.

127. EBENEZER GREENE (Peter - James - John & Richard - Richard - Robert in England) eldest son was born at Coweset February 8, 1701-2. Freeman, April 30, 1723. Married, August 1, 1724, Miriam, widow of John Remington (see No. 414). He died October 11, 1728. His will, dated October 10, 1728, was proved November 9, 1728. (See No. 150).

CHILDREN:

351. MARY, born June 8, 1725, married Joseph Wickes.
352. EBENEZER, born August 19, 1727, married Ann Arnold.

352. EBENEZER GREENE (Ebenezer - Peter - James - John & Richard - Richard - Robert in England) was born August 19, 1727. Made freeman, May 2, 1749. He was called Captain. His record reads: "married May 19, 1751, Frances Rice daughter of Thomas Esq." but the following comment is added: "This is uncertain."

The dates of Capt. Ebenezer Greene above and those of his cousin, Ebenezer (David - David - James - John) seem to have been confused.

There is reason to conclude that Capt. Ebenezer married, (perhaps, 1751-2) Ann, daughter of William and Phebe (Stafford) Arnold, born April 2, 1734. She married, 2nd, Capt. John Ladd and is mentioned in the family correspondence as the mother of Caleb Ladd; is, also, referred to as "the widow Greene", as will be seen by comparison with record of 741, Catherine Greene, (Christopher - Samuel - Samuel - John - John).

The will of James Sweet, dated January 3, 1760, proved July 10, 1763, gives "to brother Thomas 5 acres in Coweset with Mansion House on part of land purchased of Joseph Wickes, he to pay Ann Greene widow of Ebenezer 240 £ bills of credit old tenor, and gold necklace 60 £ being less 7 £ what my land is bonded for."

This mention of Ann seems to prove her the widow of Capt. Ebenezer Greene. (It could not have been his father Ebenezer, for he died in 1728, and this will is dated nearly three years after the death of Capt. Ebenezer in 1757. And the fact that Capt. Ebenezer Greene's sister Mary, (No. 351) married Joseph Wickes, who is also referred to in same will, seems to emphasize the probability that Ann Arnold, above, and not Frances Rice, married Capt. Ebenezer Greene, and, as his widow, she married (2) Captain John Ladd.

He married (1), February 13, 1763, Eleanor, daughter of John and Barbara (Rice) Langford of East Greenwich, born May 12, 1737, and (2), January 9, 1774, Mary, daughter of James and —— Reynolds of South Kingstown. His first wife was sister of Phebe Langford, who married Joseph[4] Greene (John[3], James[2], John[1]).

398. RUSSELL[5] GREENE (Rufus[4], Jabez[3], James[2], John[1]) was born at East Greenwich, March 9, 1738–9. He married, November 3, 1763, Barbara, daughter of Thomas Casey, who died July 26, 1785. He died in 1768. The will of "Barbary Greene, widow," dated June 17, 1785, proved September 24, 1785, bequeaths $100 to her father, Thomas Casey, and makes bequests to "sister Elizabeth Freeborn" and to other relatives. Russell Greene was named for his mother's family. She was a lineal descendant of Ralph Russell from Pontypool, Monmouthshire, England, who came to America, 1652, and was the progenitor of the Russells of New Bedford, Mass. (No. 143).

CHILD:

908. Casey Russell, born March 31, 1765, died December 4, 1768.

Captain Russell Greene was drowned February 24, 1768, in crossing Narragansett Ferry, and his body was never recovered. He was in his twenty-ninth year.

399. PHEBE^5 GREENE (Rufus^4, Jabez^3, James^2, John^1) was born at East Greenwich, December 20, 1740. She married, December 3, 1761, Sylvester Greene of Pawtuxet, born November 3, 1737, son of Thomas and grandson of John Greene of West Greenwich, one of the Newport Greenes, not a descendant of John, surgeon, of Warwick. The will of Rufus Greene mentions his "eldest daughters Phebe Greene and Mary Reynolds wives to Sylvester Greene and John Reynolds."

After the death of his wife (date not known), Sylvester Greene removed with his family to New Bedford, where he married again. The name of this second wife is not given. One account says that he went to New Bedford with his "four daughters who married and settled there"; but the birth of one (Phebe) is recorded twenty-two years later than the birth of the eldest, Mary, and it seems more probable that he went with his family of four children (including his son Nicholas) to New Bedford, and that Phebe was the child of his second marriage.

None of his children were by the second wife. He lived in West Greenwich, where he is recorded as giving farms (lots numbered 44 and 45 of the second division) to his sons Silas and John. He died, probably, in 1756, for his will, made August 28, 1754, was not proved until November 6, 1756. The inventory of personal property returned was £3212, 5s. 7d. Children:

Concerning him and his family, the confusion of dates is perplexing. His will, dated January 11, 1781, states his age as 84 years, but another account says that at his death, October 14, 1794, he was aged 104 years. Moreover, the births of his first four children are recorded in Warwick, and again, with the next two added, in Coventry; but in the latter record, which I follow, the dates are exactly one year later than in the former. "This dear and aged Friend was extensively known at all the Yearly Meetings on this continent, having been engaged in religious service at different times within the limits of most of them, and leaving, we believe, with all who knew him, a sweet memory of a mild, dignified, and Christian minister. . . .

"He became a member of our religious society from convincement, at the age of twenty-five years, and his gift in the ministry was acknowledged by Friends in the year 1803. From the time he put his hand to the plough, he looked not back, but exhibited a constancy in the service of the Saviour whom he loved, and a practical faith in Him as the object of his hope and trust that were truly edifying and encouraging.

"In all the varied trials and siftings through which our religious society has passed, Rowland Greene was ever found faithful to the truth, and unflinching in its support, standing in the front rank and with great meekness and gentleness, but with unwavering firmness, opposing error, and sustaining the beautiful order of the Gospel.

"To him, Friends have been accustomed to turn, as to a father in the church, and to look to him for wise and prudent counsel, which was never withheld. He was eminently a peace-maker; his meek and gentle spirit giving him a place and influence with all.

"To him, might—in more than common measure—be applied the language, 'Behold an Israelite, indeed, in whom there is no guile!'

"For several months he was very much confined to the house, his physical and mental powers gradually fading, but love, his peculiar characteristic, always abounding; and finally, without any appearance of suffering, he was gathered 'in a full age, like as a shock of corn cometh in, in his season.'"

Dear Betty,

I have searched through our records to find the birth certificate for your great grandmother, however I was unable to locate any information. She may have been born in Shelburne, but nothing seems to have been recorded. Perhaps you should contact the Vital Records department in Montpelier, Vt. as they may be able to give you information. They have all records for the State of Vermont.

If you have any other information that may be of some help in locating this birth certificate please let me know. As of now, we do not have a card in the file under that name and I checked the book for that year and found nothing there either.

I am sorry we do not have the certificate you are searching for.

Sincerely,

Jan Kilburn
